ACCORDING TO THE 2014 GALLUP-PURDUE INDEX REPORT:

Students want relationships with professors and staff who care about their long-term success and prepare them for life and the professional world.

Learn how LifeBound® Student Success Coaching Skills Training can help you have more impactful interactions with your students, and enable them to:

- Increase their ability to reflect, notice, respond to feedback, and self-correct.
- Take initiative and ownership of their academic goals.
- Embrace challenges to set them apart.
- Think creatively, innovating, and taking positive risks.
- Influence and impact others with critical interpersonal and communication skills.
- Develop a professional mindset in college to prepare for the world of work.
- Cultivate professional connections through internships and networking opportunities.

Sarah Kravits is an academic coach at Rutgers, the State University of New Jersey. Prior to that, Sarah taught the student success course at Montclair State University and has been researching and writing about student success for over 20 years. As a parent of three teenagers, a collaborator, a co-author, and an instructor, she lives the strategies for success she writes about, striving daily for goal achievement, productive teamwork, and integrity. Sarah is a co-author on the Keys to Success series, including Keys to College Success, Keys to Community College Success, Keys to College Success Compact, Keys to Effective Learning, Keys to Online Learning, and Keys to Success Quick. Sarah presents workshops and trainings on student success topics such as critical thinking, risk and reward, and time management at schools all over the country. As a Jefferson Scholar alumna from the University of Virginia, she continues to embody the Jefferson Scholars Program goals of leadership, scholarship, and citizenship through her ability to inspire college students to succeed as learners and in all aspects of their lives.
